AMERICAN GIRLS SCHOOL AT ALEXANDRIA.

The graduation exercises of the American Mission Girls' School at Alexandria, took place on Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, at the Mission Hall. The meeting was largely attended. Mr. Daoud Barakat, editor-in-chief of the "Ahram" delivered a speech taking as his subject, "The School educates the woman; and woman educates the community." As an able social and political writer the speaker discussed the question from both points of view. He spoke highly of the American Mission and the splendid work it has achieved in the Near East, referring to the valuable services rendered by the teachers of its schools. The girls then performed a short play entitled "The Triumph of Peace."

Judge Tuck, American judge of the Alexandria Mixed Court presented the diplomas to the graduated girls who sang a beautiful farewell song on the occasion, in Arabic. Judge Tuck, speaking about the work of the American Mission in Egypt, praised the efforts made by the Rev. M.S. Roy appreciating his work. The ceremony was well organised thanks to the arrangements made by Miss French, Head of the Girls' School.

WOMEN AND THE WAR.

THE KING'S THANKS.

APPEAL FOR LAND WORKERS.

LONDON, June 29.

(8.30 p.m.) Three thousand women went in procession through London today and presented an address of homage to the King and Queen on the occasion of their silver wedding. No fewer than twenty five different uniforms were worn and presented a remarkable and striking spectacle as well as testifying to the wonderful part that British women have come to play in winning the war. The King, addressing them at Buckingham Palace, paid a warm tribute to their splendid services and he expressed the hope that their labour might soon have its reward in a decisive victory and an enduring peace. His Majesty wished them Godspeed. Reuter.

("Gazette's Special Service.")

LONDON, June 27.

Mr. Lloyd George, appealing to the women of Great Britain to work on the land, says that the harvest, wherein are centred the hope and faith of our soldiers that their own heroic struggle will not be in vain, is endangered for want of labour owing to the calling up of men for military service. There is not a moment to lose. Every young and strong woman who is not already engaged in essential work should follow the splendid example of the Women's Land Army and share the privilege and duty of working in the fields of Britain. Women never failed the country yet and would not fail her at this grave hour.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S METHODS.

("Gazette's Special Service.")

LONDON, June 23.

Mr. Lloyd George, speaking at the Welsh Baptist Tabernacle in London, urged that they must prepare aright for peace. The world must be fit for every body and all classes to live in. There would be no room for deformities like militarism, mammonism, and anarchy. All must have a fair share. The future Empire had already been committed to democracy. Problems of reconstruction must be arranged in an atmosphere of brotherhood and friendliness. The upper classes, middle classes and lower classes had all passed through the fiery furnace together and it had changed the people's hearts. "Before I fought hard to get fairplay for the people from which I sprang. What I got was by fighting. I am going to try another way this time."

THE OPIUM DEAL

("Gazette's Special Service.")

LONDON, June 24.

In the House of Commons, replying to Sir W. Collins, Mr. Balfour stated that the Government had been officially informed that the Chinese Government and the opium combine had concluded an agreement for the purchase of the stocks of Indian opium landed in Shanghai and Canton, but it had no official information regarding the resale to a syndicate. The Government had not participated in or given any official countenance to the negotiations leading to this agreement but as the stocks mentioned were imported from China under the 1911 agreement the Government had been unable to prevent the conclusion of this private transaction. As the importation of certificated Indian opium into China ceased to be legal with the expiration of the 1911 agreement, the Government had no reason to fear a revival of the Indo Chinese opium traffic.

EGYPT'S FOOD.

It is reported from Port Said that the petroleum question is now settled satisfactorily and it can be got easily. But a sugar crisis still prevails and it is very difficult to purchase an oke of sugar. Grocers sell sugar to their friends at the prices they laid out and sell them not to mention what they paid for it.

The quantity of Australian flour which the Supplies Control Board has sent to Suez, Port Said and Ismailiah amounts to 180 tons. It is understood that there are only 2,700 sacks of flour in the possession of the Supplies Control Board, which it is keeping for emergencies. According to an Arabic contemporary the Supplies Control Board is now thinking of organising an Association for bakers on the lines of that of the cereal merchants.

BICYCLE THIEVES ARRESTED.

The Cairo Civil Police has arrested a local Greek, who specialises in stealing bicycles. About fifteen bicycles were found in his possession.

He was recently condemned to thirty months' imprisonment, for ten thefts and will again appear before the Court on July 4 on five separate charges. The enquiry has revealed the fact that he has an accomplice who is a French subject, who has been handed over to the French Consulate for trial.

DISAPPOINTED STUDENT ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

A few days ago Mahmoud Mohamed, a student in one of the Cairo schools took a draught of poison in the attempt to commit suicide because he failed in the baccalaureate examination. Mahmoud has been sent to the hospital and is in a dangerous state.

ASSIUT NOTES.

THE SPREAD OF FEVER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT).

ASSIUT, June 28.

In my last notes I dwelt much upon the entire lack of watering and scavenging and the indifference of the Local Council to cleanliness, especially in Old Assiut. It would not therefore be strange if I have to tell readers of the "Gazette" the lamentable news of the spread of fever in this big city.

Not a single day passes without the report of several deaths from one sort of fever or other. Both the American and Government Hospitals are thronged with patients, and the doctors are busily engaged in treating sick people in their houses and spending all efforts to exterminate fever.

The Local Council pretends that economy is the real cause of this lack of cleanlines, yet it seems to me that extravagance is markedly shown along other lines. Lack of organisation and nothing else seems to be the true source of this negligence. Wherever you go in the interior of the city you find many electric lamps lit in the midst of the day. They are, I think, lighted by children, and I wonder why so much light is extravagantly and uselessly exhausted and why the authorities are unable to find the remedy. In my opinion the value of the light used in that absurd way could be devoted to scavenging or watering.

But Assiut is a great centre of learning and a large percentage of its people are enlightened, so why do they show such silence, ease and indifference to such a matter? The answer to such a question is obvious to anyone who knows what Assiut is. The rich class and some of the middle class live outside the real, old city, in fine streets, well swept and cleansed by the authorities who naturally dwell in them. What then can the poorer class, who are in the majority, do? They grumble and grumble and cry to the prefect but their voices are lost in the air or are echoed but in vain by the distant hills, and their words that appear from time to time in the papers fall on deaf ears. The rich member of the Council hears the complaint and shrugs his shoulders or in most cases turns his back on the city and says: Besides the President of the Council, His Excellency the Mudir, is very busy in studying the proposed scheme of adopting compulsory education.

It is regrettable that with such a miserable state of things and the fevers prevalent, the authorities are closing their ears to this just appeal. The Public Health Department is quite aware of the fact but I really do not know for what reason it holds its hands. Another most obvious thing that proves this negligence is this: In the early morning enormous quantities of bad, unripe dates are sold daily to the poor children in the open market and in the streets. Everybody knows that this facilitates fevers and acts as a good manure for microbes, but the Health Department does not care a button.

It saddens me to return to Assiut, after an absence of some years, and find it in such a state of dirt and backwardness. I crin my plea to that of the poor inhabitants against this state of affairs.

TANTAH NOTES.

OMDEH'S ALLEGED MISCONDUCT.

(From our own Correspondent).

Tantah, June 27.

Considerable interest is being taken into the charges that have been brought against Hussein Effendi Ismail Kalaf, the Omdeh of Basun, in the Kafr el-Zayat district. He is accused among other charges of having collected 140 ardebs of maize from the people of his village, which were to be sold to the military authorities, but it is alleged that he concealed 92 ardebs and only offered to sell 48 ardebs. He is also charged with having forced Ibrahim Abdou Said el-Din and Hag Mohamed Abada to give him money under threats that if they failed to do so he would send their sons to military service. Furthermore, he is also charged with having taken a door, of the value of L.E.40 from Said Ahmed el-Sheikh and stored it as a bribe. The door is now in the hands of the police. Several telegrams with complaints about this Omdeh were sent to the Food Supplies Board, the Ministry of the Interior, and to the Mudir.

The Mudir, accompanied by the Mamour of Kafr el-Zayat district, went to the place and, after making a preliminary investigation into the charges from the inhabitants, who were over 200 in number, has now opened an enquiry. Much satisfaction is expressed with the action of the Mudir and of the Mamour owing to the prompt way in which they have dealt with the matter.

CAIRO AMUSEMENTS.

THE CARDS PIERROT TROUPE.—A cordial reception was accorded The Cards Pierrot Troupe in the first of their two grand concerts at the Piccadilly Theatre, Cairo last week. As before mentioned, these performances were in aid of the Soldiers' Entertainments Committee. The opening chorus of The Cards' new performance was well received. The idea of introducing each member of the cast, which is "a band of trumps," by a vocal item was novel whilst the prologue rendered by Glove, in the rôle of the Dealer, deserves mention. Clark as The Ace of Clubs gave a tuneful number entitled "Come to Sea" which was followed by "Daring Deeds," a skit on the soldier hero with Dixon (Joker) the leading character. The Queen of Hearts (Miss O'Reilly) scored with "When you come Home" — a "solo" effort that suited her soprano compass excellently. A "Snap" dialogue was the next item in which the Queen of Diamonds (Miss Carr) and the Knave of Spades (Battershill) gave a witty reproduction of the trials of a quarrelling pair. "A Scientific Man" highly amused the house as rendered by Hancock (Joker 11.) who put the whole of his humorous 15 cwt. into the number. A clever concerted item "I'll be a Sister of You All" rather lacked vitality but the King of Spades (Fetherston) gave us "The Toreador" with plenty of volume — quite a "trump" card. The Queen of Diamonds next gave some clever monologues which deserve commendation for the finish and versatility displayed in them. The interval item was a concerted telephone song with the Dealer and the Queen of Diamonds as the principal participants. The second half of a well chosen programme opened with a study in "F" minor by the Shuffler (Mr. F. Chatterton), an original composition and vividly expressive. Mrs. Chatterton's association with the Cards is responsible for the several original items in the new programme, in which, by the way, she accompanies without music throughout — no mean feat of memory. "Rendez-vous" proved to be a lengthy artistic song-scene which nevertheless held the house — a tribute to the graceful and perfect movements of the dancers, Miss Carr and Glover. The Knave of Spades executed some clever black and white studies. Two clever scenes "Yaku Hula" (in which Dixon introduced a topical burlesque) and "Cigarette" followed — the latter being very well received. Mention must be made of Fagland by the King of Hearts (Lailey) and another effort by Hancock whilst "Hong Kong" by the Ace of Clubs had an excellent setting. Fetherston sang "King Charles" a fiery Cavalier number, well, and a harmonious Finale closed an artistic programme. Thus the first public appearance of "The Cards" and the audience showed great approval of an entertainment which is given to Red Cross hospitals, convalescent depots, etc., by parties of this character. The dresses were pretty and the lighting and other effects worked harmoniously with the artistic numbers. Lady Allenby has been good enough to send a note of congratulation to the producers.

THE SALLE KLEBER.—The films for the current week at the Salle Kleber are of a very high order of merit, and exhibit the same care in their selection which patrons of this popular cinema house are accustomed to expect at the hands of the management. "Round the King" — Which was the first item on the programme — proved to be a two-part comedy of a very charming character; in which some of the best actors and actresses of the Paris theatres appeared. "Charlie Chaplin in the Pawn Shop," as the mere title might lead one to expect, provides the great humourist with limitless opportunity for creating amusement, and his adventures at the counter were followed by the audience with continuous laughter. This is a truly exceptional film, and should on no account be missed. "For an hour's Love" came next, and occupied the second half of the programme. It consisted of 4 reels, and the leading parts were assigned to Mr. & Mrs. Sainsbury, who are without question the pioneers in film of this type of photo-play. A story of love from end are, this truly thrilling reflection of human passion and agony, met with a profoundly appreciative reception by the large audience present. Some of the scenes were particularly harrowing, but there were many of outstanding beauty that the emotions were on the whole more or less equally balanced.

THE AMERICAN CINEMOGRAPH.—On Friday evening last the new programme for the coming week was exhibited for the first time before a very large attendance of the public, and met with unalloyed success. "Hearts and Sweethearts" was the first item screened, and this amusing American vaudeville was its original plot. "Fate" was a great surprise. "A Soul in Distress" came next. This proved a very remarkable drama in 4 reels, and dealt with modern life in which the famous actress, Miss Valentine Fravarelli, supported by first-class artists, appeared. This film is certain to attract attention. "Bobby's Farewell to Bachelor Life" was very witty and amusing, and had running through it a very originally conceived intrigue of a most diverting character. "Gamond's Wild Events" dealt with the principal events relating to the war which have occurred in the United States. Particularly striking was the scene in the picture in which the huge device of the stars and stripes was composed of living men.

After the interval, a powerful social drama — in 3 reels — of a thrilling description, was displayed, in which Cecil Humphreys of the French Comedy Theatre took the leading rôle. There is no doubt that as the weeks go by, plays of this class become more and more sensational. This one in particular, it seems difficult to imagine being improved upon.

ALEXANDRIA AMUSEMENTS.

THE MAJESTIC HOTEL.—The Majestic Hotel was again crowded on Saturday afternoon with successful receipeers celebrating the cessation and announcement of the ending of a few minutes brightness and good cheer before taking the night train back to Cairo, with its six hours of fitful sunshine and bitter cold. No more fitting ending to a good day at the races can be imagined, and the refreshments and dinners that the Majestic Hotel prepares and serves so well on race evenings. Tables can be ordered for dinner and it is always wise to order as early as possible for as the Empire theatre management carefully warn the public, in all matters of entertainment, either for the inner or the outer man, "it is a better to book than be sorry."

THE EMPIRE THEATRE.—The monster programme arranged for this evening by the Bandman Musical Comedy Company, at the new fashionable resort in Alexandria, for the special performance to be given in aid of General Boyle's special Benevolent Fund, under the patronage of Their Excellencies the High Commissioner and Lady Wingate and General R.C. Boyle, has naturally caused a stir and the seats have been selling like hot cakes. There were, however, yesterday afternoon, when we dropped in to see the tea drinking and variety entertainment in the Empire's fashionable garden, which has become such a feature of Alexandria life, still a few tickets for the best places left. It was however expected that they would go to the racecourse every day. Our advice therefore is to follow the maxim of Mr. Bandman's popular establishment and book this morning as early as possible.

EGYPT'S INLAND WATERWAYS.

A QUESTION FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

(TO THE EDITOR, "EGYPTIAN GAZETTE.")

SIR,—I write to thank your correspondent "Excelsior" for his appreciation of my efforts to draw the attention of our authorities and the general public to the importance for the welfare of Egypt which the proper development of its waterways involves, and at the same time to point out that "Excelsior's" suggestion to form a company to build a canal from Alexandria to Port Said would be to defeat the object in view, viz., cheap and quick transport to and from all parts of Egypt for local produce and imported goods, the whole raison d'être of a public company is to earn dividends for shareholders, not to provide cheap transit for goods. I go further and say that Government should never allow any of our waterways to pass into private hands for unless the whole system is coordinated to a uniform standard, such as minimum size of locks, width, and height of bridges, depths and widths of canals to allow a specified maximum size and draft of barges or boats to pass freely from one system to another it would only be laying up trouble for the future, for sooner or later the public and the Government will awaken to the importance of the subject and large sums of money will have to be spent in undoing and altering much that has already been done or will be done unless the necessary steps are now taken for the constitution of a special department of the Public Works to take up the standardisation of all our waterways together, of course with their locks and bridges. In England the Waterways Association have decided to spend a sum of no less than thirty million pounds in correcting the errors and neglect in the canal system of the country which the British Government inherited from the railway companies to strangle owing to a short-sighted policy of transport rivalry, with the result that a Royal Commission which completed its labours shortly before the war, broke out was surprised to discover that the Germans were transporting goods by barge and steamer from Cologne, Frankfort, and Mannheim to London at lower rates than our manufacturers were paying for the transport of similar goods between Birmingham and London.

In Belgium the canals like those of England were of varying gauges up to 1885. In that year the Government began widening and deepening them to a uniform standard, the work was completed in 1890 and within five years the traffic had increased from twenty five million tons a year to over fifty three millions tons.

The Egyptian State Railways announce a further increase of 50 o/o on their present rates, big enough from July 1, making a total increase of 100 o/o on pre-war rates. I read in the "Egyptian Gazette" that the cereal merchants attribute the shortage of wheat in the Cairo market to lack of boats. Egypt is suffering for want of transport facilities and is paying exorbitant rates for the little that is available. This would not be the case had the importance of our waterways been realised by the Government and a proportionate amount of care and forethought given to it as has been to that of the Irrigation Service of the country.

Yours, etc.,
J. M. WILLIAMSON.
