THE CEREAL MERCHANTS CONGRESS.

The election of delegates from the Provinces and Governorates to represent the cereal merchants in the congress which is to be held for the purpose of considering the draft regulations drawn up by the provisional Committee to govern the new Cereal Merchants Association, is now being carried out everywhere in Egypt and it is anticipated that it will be possible to hold the congress during the early days of August. In Cairo where 14 delegates are to be appointed — 7 to represent the Atar El Nahi and 7 to the Red El Farang cereal markets, the merchants met on Sunday at the Governorate and proceeded with the elections. The seven delegates representing Red El Farang were elected, but owing to lack of time the election of the remainder was postponed till Tuesday, July 16. It is expected that the election of the whole provincial delegates will be concluded this week.

THE PRICE OF BREAD.

We referred last week to the written undertaking made by 15 of the leading native bakeries before the Governor of Cairo and the President of the Suppliers' Control Board, to sell native bread at the rate of 30 millimes per oke for the special quality, and 33 1/2 millimes per oke for the ordinary quality. The date on which the undertaking takes effect is July 15 and these bakers started to sell native bread on that day. In the past, however, the native bakers never consented to bread sold at such a low price, but the undertaking will continue this practice now as they have given their word. The bread and European bakers are still selling it at high prices which is of the least help to the consumer. It is not the intention of the Suppliers' Control Board to settle this question once and for all thus close the wheat and bread problem?

SCARCITY OF SACKS.

At present time there is a very great scarcity of sacks in the provinces, and contractors for the Army, who have sent sacks to the villages to be filled with tins, are unable to do so, as the sacks are empty because the village use them for their own purposes and refuse to return them. Complaints to the provincial police appear to be of no use, as the police refuse to take up the matter and refer the contractors to the Courts. As this would entail heavy fines, the contractors are unable to perform their contracts for the army.

ALEXANDRIA AMUSEMENTS.

THE EXETER CIRCUS.—An excellent entertainment is being provided at the New Empire. It is the first time that anything of this sort has been seen in Alexandria for many years, and it brings back once more memories of the huge tented circuses of the old English circus, which used to come to Alexandria, strong and elephants, of the old English circus, which used to come to Alexandria, strong and elephants, of the old English circus, which used to come to Alexandria, strong and elephants.

JAPANESE TRIED FOR MURDER.

EVIDENCE DOUBLY TRANSLATED.

Misaki Tedawar, the young Japanese seaman charged with having murdered a Dutch seaman in April last, on board a steamer which was then in the western harbour, appeared yesterday before the Native Assize Court for trial. The prosecution was conducted by Saka Effendi, of the Alexandria Parquet, and the accused was defended by Meira Shafiq Effendi and Hallahan. As the accused knows only Japanese, a Japanese translator—Mr. S. Oshishi—had to be employed on the occasion. The evidence of the accused was translated into English and his translation had then to be translated into Arabic by an official of the Governorate in reply to a questioning addressed to him by the Court about the charge imputed to him to the effect that he had committed wilful murder, the accused said he had no intention to kill the Dutch seaman to death. He simply meant to defend himself against several men who had attacked him on board the ship, including the victim and he was sorry to hear of the death of the latter whom he never intended to injure. After hearing the arguments of both parties, the Court sentenced Misaki to two years' imprisonment. The young Jap bowed twice before the judges, and the judgment and looked pleased with the result. Mr. S. Oshishi who acted as a translator during the trial, received any payment for having done this service, stating that he had volunteered to serve justice in this case.

SALES IN PALESTINE.

The Press Association's special correspondent in Palestine reports a sale of horses and mules, and kind stock, the establishment of British authority in Palestine. The inhabitants were eager to invest their hoarded savings in live stock, which is indicated as evidence of their confidence in the security of the new order of things; while the prices ruling at the moment of sale are said to be the unsuppressed amount of wealth in the country.
