FAITHS IN, DOCTORS.

WHAT THEY CAN AND CANNOT DO.

The satirist who describes all medical men as scoundrels may do the medical profession little harm, but a wast masses it little good, says the latest "Lancet" to hand. This last credits physicians and surgeons — particularly the latter — with powers little short of miraculous, and hallows beliefs which date from the magic. Who, for instance, is not familiar with the story which describes how at the bospital — preferably Moorfield—the eyes of some half dozen patients are daily taken out, "laid on the cheek", in the many control of the contro sockets. A complete cure invariably fol-lows, and, the operation has, as a rule, heen performed on the narrator's near kindrel. It is in vain to reply to this miraculous recital that the eye is close-ly anchored to its moorings. Extraordinary feats of gastine surgery are not uncommon in popular legend, may of them, seeing that operations are performed now-days which were un-derestimated by the contraction of the seed of the contraction of the contraction of the Street — with the curious predilection for removing all the, intestines and lay-
