MAGNETOS AND THE WAR.

MAINETOS AND THE WAIK.

It is satisfactory to mote that in one field of industry of which we hear lift's man monopoly. That field is the making of magnetos. Before the war the supply of these fitments was for all practical purposes in the hands of a German monopoly. That field is the making of the section of the section of the following the section of the bousehold, it may be said, in the motoring world. With the coming of the war the supplies from over the North Sea ceased, and our vehicles for more than the supplies from over the war purposes gree as rapidly as enon-mously, the British motor manufacturers began to be in Queer Street. Fog a while America cased the situation, call the supplies from the supplies from the supplies from the supplies from over the supplies f The Cigarette of 60 years' reputation.
