MR. ASQUITH'S LETTERS CENSORED.

"A Wayfarer," writing in "A London Diary" in the "Yadion," says: "While Mr. Asquith was abroad he suffered the gross indignity of having his letters opened and examined by the Censor. A remonstrance against this outrage, addressed to the War Office, produced neither remedy nor apology."

A Bohemian commission has presented a report in favour of the compulsory expropriation of landowners. The report recommends that no landowner shall be allowed to retain possession of more than 625 acres, and that all his land property over and above this limit shall be bought by the State at a price fixed by the Government.
